that the country has had democratic refers with scarcely an interruption for a period of thirty-two years.

But our Convention is folling us that we must restore the democracy to regain prosperity. But if the people of this country are not able to remander that treason was batched during democratic administration—that it was bred in the democratic party itself—that it was in fact one half of that was both whoseld him the line of the gotten at tan, they are the shortest memo-ries that very got marmischared, and if the country is whiting no e to put the same crear back into power, they are possessed, of an attenua of forgivenes, or a store of folly in-ercetible. What if the war be heavy? It is a demonable concern. It was all lampaided and ready to hatch before kincoln come into before Lincoln some into Beauregard, before Lincoln had been nve-fee weeks in office, and before he had fred a gur. To restore the democracy to end the war, and care the national unferings, is like parting on more fire to care a burn.

abme one to seeme, as the came of their unhappiness. There need always be a capegost for neutronal scapegost is naturally the actional admic istratum. It is, of course, the case that the nation unders. A war like this could not be prologed for four years without suffering. Mere have been killed and wounded in battle, tures have to be paid, and prices are on the war footing. All this is nothing new. It was so in the Revolution a mid in the second war with Great Britain, though it lasted but about three years, the prices of living, over the country, were two is nothing new. It was so in the Revolution and is the second war with Great Britain, shough it lasted but about three years, the prices of living, over the country, were two to three times larger than usual.

But when the country thrus upon this administration as the cause of this state of things, it is on the wrong seem. Lincoln did not yet up the war. He found it on his hands. If rriends are killed, womanded, or taken priconers, as soldiers, it is not to be charged to the Administration. If prices are high; if taxes increase, there is 30 asses in charging that upon the Government, since such a state of things attaches to all war. And if a drought has prevailed extensively over the Estate, curtailing production and causing apprehensions of still further suffering, that surely is the result of no short-conleg; on the part of the pational administration. If we are salled upon for more men, and the draft impends to fill up our ranks and push the war is being prosecuted, and that there is the disposition to push it through had unless the people are prepared to sabulit to the robbel, and take them back as their masters, there is early no other way but the pushes of the candidate to enduct one also of it. No doubt the people wish it was over; but how will you can set it by yinding or by ighting

Est Commissioner Osborn, of New York, has rendered his decision, discharging Mr. Mollaly, of the Meropolitan Record, who had been arrected for courselling resistances to the draft, by an article published in that paper. The tarainer point of Commissioner Osborn's decision was, that a draft cannot be reassied until it is actually in operation; and consequently, that urticles in newspapers, or other expressions of opinion discussing its prepriety or denotuncing its motives, are not a rotation of the law.
